Currier and Ives Snow Opal* Pendants

These little gems are pure magic, old New England winter scenes. Captured in gem opal* are frozen ponds and streams, snow hills and valleys, and snow-covered open fields. They are winter-white-perfect, over the river and through the woods, trees in black lace silhouetted against a winter-gray sky. Think ice-covered grasses, Queen Anne's Lace, black crows on the wing, twilight winter's sleep, and stars in the sky.

Snow Opal Pendants.....$195.00 to $495.00 ✓

Price varies by size and detail

18" sterling silver chain, shown actual size

*"Snow opal" is its name. The gem material is natural agatized quartz.

Visit us on-line, make your selection, give us a call or if you're within 100 miles of Portland, stop in and choose in person. They really are magic.

86 MILLION pounds of wild
Maine blueberries last year.
That's a lot of blueberry muffins!

Blueberry Lovers, Rejoice! Maine Blueberry Stone

This is a hoot! It's fun, playful, and such a surprise.

Maine is known for a lot of things: moose, lobsters, and of course, wild blueberries. Last year 86 million pounds of blueberries were harvested here in Maine. That's a lot of blueberry muffins. Maine is the wild blueberry capital of the world. So when we discovered this new stone we knew we just had to have it. It's a salt and pepper granite with little blue azurite spheres nestled within.

Cut and polished, the blueberries appear scattered beautifully across the surface as only nature can do...we've never seen anything quite like it. Set in sterling silver with 18" chain.

Every piece is different. Choose on-line or visit our store

Pendants $200.00 - $650.00 ✓

Earrings.....CT9015-ILE.....$150.00 ✓

Price depends on size and blueberry distribution.

From Maine? No!*
We wish though! This is a magical New World gem.

GET TO KNOW & LOVE PORTLAND

Portland is a city that's easy to get to know and love. Hop on a METRO bus, private trolley or transit tour, or simply take a stroll along our tree-lined brick sidewalks in the Old Port and Arts Districts.

One of downtown Portland's best features is that it's so walkable with the waterfront always just a few blocks away. Whatever your ultimate destination, give yourself a little extra time because you'll find yourself pausing often to visit an intriguing specialty shop or boutique, explore an art gallery, or enjoy a little refreshment.

We are proud that most of our shops, restaurants and galleries are locally and independently owned, some of which are family owned for the second or third generation. It's one of the reasons that you'll experience a level of customer service that is hard to find these days.

Restaurants of all descriptions abound offering a culinary experience that you will not soon forget. Portland delights many visiting "foodies" for the number of our fine dining restaurants led by nationally honored chefs.

As you explore Portland, expect the unexpected. Down by the Ocean Gateway Terminal or the Maine State Pier you may well look out to the water and see a harbor seal looking back at you. Be sure to take a ride on our public water ferry system, Casco Bay Lines, and visit one of the many islands in Casco Bay.

Thanks in part to the city's long and distinguished history and preservation-minded citizenry, you'll find an architectural gem around just about every corner. It may be a building on the grand scale, like Portland City Hall, which presides over a plaza at the top of Exchange Street and designed in the French Renaissance style by the New York firm of Carrere and Hastings, architects of the New York Public Library. It may be an often-overlooked detail, like the bust of Vulcan, high on the facade of Mechanics Hall on Congress Street. It may be a charming work of public art like the little horse fountain on Federal Street, which features gargoyle fish and is dedicated to a former president of the Maine State Society for the Protection of Animals.

Portland is so beautifully compact; it's a short distance from the waterfront with its splendid views to the endless charms of the Old Port, into the center of the city along Congress Street, and up to the Arts District, whose crowning glory is the world-class Portland Museum of Art designed by I.M. Pei.

Be sure not to miss the adjacent Children's Museum & Theatre of Maine, and the nearby Institute of Contemporary Art at the Maine College of Art. In the evening, take in a show at Portland Stage Company, State Theatre or at the stunningly renovated Merrill Auditorium.

Top off the evening with a beverage from one of many fine local breweries, and sample the lively local music scene at a bar or club.

With its beautiful natural setting; its blend of small-town warmth and urban sophistication; and its countless cultural, historic, and recreational attractions, Portland indeed captivates everyone.

ABOUT PORTLAND DOWNTOWN

Building a better Portland together

Our Mission

Portland Downtown, a 501c(4) nonprofit organization, is in the business of maintaining a clean and safe Downtown while building and promoting a vibrant business, residential and tourism destination.

What We Do

Portland Downtown supports economic vitality while improving the quality of life for residents, employees and visitors. Our 5-Year Strategic Plan includes four focus areas:

- Downtown Vitality: We actively promote and drive business to the downtown region through powerful print & online communications and major community events like the Old Port Festival and Merry Madness.
- Downtown Experience: We keep Portland safe through our cadet program and improvements to street lighting & signage. We create cleaner, more welcoming spaces through landscaping, graffiti removal and repairs to aging sidewalks and tree wells.
- Growth: As Portland's Downtown expands organically, so too does the organization's reach and constituency. We are committed to deepening our impact through strategic planning, collaboration and efficient operation.
- Advocacy: Portland Downtown assumes a leadership role with regard to all issues that impact the future of Portland. We often serve as the voice of the downtown community, ensuring that needs & concerns are addressed fairly and in a timely fashion.
